SYMPOSIUM INTERSECTIONALITY THEORY, APPROACH, ACTIVISM

February 6-8, 2020
University of Bayreuth
Campus, GWI & Iwalewahaus

Conveners: Susan Arndt, Christine Vogt-William, Shirin Assa und Xin Li (UBT)
in Cooperation with Antje Kley und Annette Keilhauer (FAU)

The Africa Multiple Cluster and the GeQuInDi network at the University of Bayreuth invites paper proposals for a three-day symposium on “Intersectionality. Theory, Approach, Activism”. This academic event focuses on intersectionality as a concept, an analytical approach, and in terms of how it influences political activism. It invites critical dialogues in academia and activism, addressing the poetics, ethics and politics of intersectionality, seeking to frame the discipline of Intersectionality Studies and its deep connections to the history of activism. It is a platform for transdisciplinary research as well as activist interventions in forms of panels, workshops, presentations and posters. We invite contributions that advance the understanding of intersectionality as an academic theory, methodology, as well as its embeddedness as a discipline in activism and socio-political movements. Research agendas from different disciplinary backgrounds with the objective of reconfiguring humanities in general and African Studies in particular are strongly encouraged on this platform.
